REMEMBER BAND BOYS SUNDAY

PATRIOTIC SERVICE AND CONCERT AT EMPIRE THEATER.

WILL BRING GIFTS TO CHEER OUR MUSICIANS

Joint Meeting of Union of Young People's Societies Will Be Occasion of Appreciation for Militiamen.

Towns all over Missouri and the United States are holding meetings to send tokens of remembrance and love to the men who have been called out for service in the national guard. Comment has been heard in Maryville ever since the Fourth Regiment band left last Wednesday afternoon that this city should be equally patriotic and show its appreciation of the fellows.

Everybody seemed to be waiting for the other fellow or organization to start. Since most of the band are young men and one of the number is president of the Epworth League, and therefore a member of the cabinet of the Union of Young People's Societies, that organization thought it was fitting for it to take charge of such a movement.

A special patriotic meeting will be held next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, therefore, at the Empire theater, at which the Maryville band which remains will give a concert. Patriotic songs, Scripture reading and other exercises will be given on the program.

At some place in the program an opportunity will be given for those present to bring forward their gifts to the band boys, which will be put in one box and sent to the men either at Nevada or on the border, wherever they are, a week from today. Homemade candy, cakes, pies and canned fruit are especially desired.

Will Ask for List.

A letter has been sent to I. B. Williams, who is a member of the Young People's Union cabinet, being president of the Buchanan Street Epworth League, in which he is asked to prepare a list of the things the men desire most. This will be published later in the week.

It is probable also that a money collection will be taken along with the gifts. Various articles will be purchased with this money, under the direction of a committee from the band here and the Young People's Union.

The meeting will take the place of the first of the joint meetings of the three societies of the union to be held each Sunday during the month of July. It is probable that the other services will be held on the campus of the high school.

Will Hutchison is program chairman of the union and will have charge of the meetings. Martin Lewis, Jr., chairman of the union's social committee, will have charge of the collecting and sending of the gifts and remembrances to the thirty Maryville men in the Fourth Regiment band.

The Union of Young People's Societies is a federation of the Christian Endeavors of the Presbyterian and Christian churches and the Epworth League of the Buchanan Street Methodist church.

Gives Use of Theater.

The use of the Empire theater has been offered by Manager Albert Kuchs, and the band men who stay have given assurance through their leader, Loyd Miles, that a program of unusual excellence will be prepared.

Further details will be given in the paper during the week. It is hoped that various organizations, lodges, clubs and groups will take the matter up and send gifts as a body. The placing of cards either of individuals or of organizations in the gifts will be very acceptable and permissible.

The Epworth League of the Buchanan Street church and the union cabinet will send a special gift to Mr. Williams. Organizations and clubs,

WHO'S THE HAPPIER?

OLIVER BOVARD AND CHARLES S. CASEY RELEASED FROM SERVICE.

BUSINESS NEEDED BOTH

Special Efforts Had Been Made by Maryville Citizens in Behalf of Married Men.

It would take one who readeth to know who the happiest man in Maryville today is, but it would not take a magician or phychologist at all to know the happiest two men in this city. They are Oliver Bovard and Charles S. Casey, former members of the Fourth Regiment band.

Both men are married and have families dependent upon them. Each has a business which is not in shape to be left without a head at this time. They were the bluest men in Missouri probably last Wednesday, as they had to go with the band boys to Nevada.

Efforts on their behalf were made with Colonel McNeely and other staff officers at once, and more than a score of telegrams were sent by the Commercial club and individuals asking for the release of the two men. The welcome news was given to them Saturday night that they were free to return home. They took the night train out and arrived in Maryville yesterday morning.

They had not been discharged, but have a release which will probably be permanent. Casey is back at his tire business this morning and Bovard is making the weeds go chase themselves on his farm. The families are still "pinching themselves" for the well known reason.

Most Fellows Are Willing.

Casey said this morning that all of the fellows, with the possible exception of Marion Minter and I. B. Williams, are anxious to go to the border. It is not known for sure whether any others will be released, but the chances seem to be against it.

"If anyone wants a lazy man's job, enlist in a band and go to war," is the way Bovard sized up the situation. He said that only three tunes had been played since they got there and all they could do was read, sit and watch the regular soldiers drill, play cards, roll the bones or smoke.

The band is under Captain Walter M. Mann, regimental adjutant. He and Colonel McNeely have given Professor T. B. Maulding assurance that he will be given an opportunity of getting a house so that Mrs. Maulding can join them in Texas. A concert every night and one piece each morning are the only musical requirements.

The men are a part of the headquarters department, however, and will have to spend several hours a day in the hospital service. The band had not been examined for physical defects by Saturday night, but were being mustered into the federal ranks when the Maryville men left Saturday.

A letter was received by the Sweitzer smoke shop "bunch" from "Shube" Woodard and Reynolds. They believed Saturday that they would entrain Sunday morning for the border.

ROAD BONDS CARRY

WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP FAVORS $25,000 ISSUE SATURDAY.

61 TO 147, 9 MAJORITY

Two-Thirds Needed to Insure Better Roads and Bridges—Other News of the Guilford Region.

Washington township stepped into the better roads class Saturday when a $25,000 bond issue was adopted by the township with a two-thirds majority and nine votes to spare. State aid for special work upon the roads will now be received.

Credit for the great victory for better highways, bridges and road repairs goes principally to the township board. J. V. Pugh, Millard Ellis and William E. Brittain have worked tirelessly for the passing of the special tax. The east part of the township was strongest for the bonds, the vote being heavily in favor in that section.

The matter of selling the bonds will be taken up with the county court as soon as possible and work will follow on the roads very quickly. The vote was 61 against to 147 for.

Roxie Wilson, clerk of the election, brought the poll books to Maryville today and turned them over to the county clerk.

George Martin, his wife and child were thrown from their buggy and considerably bruised last night northwest of Guilford, when the team became frightened by an automobile and made a sharp turn, which overturned the buggy. The car was driven by Arthur Thompson. No one was seriously hurt.

The Sunday school of the Guilford M. E. church, South, gave a program last night. "The King's Garden" was the title of the exercises.

Will Wray shipped several cars of stock to the St. Joseph market today.

"Uncle Matt" Whiteford is getting down to town as usual now and is very lively, despite his 83 years.

Mrs. T. D. Parr of Hamilton, Mo., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Whiteford, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McClintock are visiting relatives in Golley, Ia., this week. Mr. McClintock is the C. G. W. agent and has been in poor health.

Lewis Skidmore of Seattle, Wash., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Skidmore.

MARYVILLE WINS IN TENNIS

Nelson and Roof of Conception Junction Fall Before Nixon and Gillam 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

Forrest Gillam and Merrill Nixon of Maryville defeated A. W. Nelson and William Roof of Conception Junction Saturday in a tennis match, winning in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3 and 6-2. The second game of the first set was a remarkable deuce game, going back to deuce eighteen times before the Maryville boys won the game.

Nixon and Gillam have been playing together a great deal this year and are hard to beat as a combination. Gillam's service is his strong point, while Nixon is an extremely hard man to get one by at the net. Nelson and Roof of Conception play well together, the former being a "slammer" and the latter a "slicker." That is to say, Nelson uses hard drives while Roof cuts the ball frequently.

STANBERRY FOOLED FEDS

It Was Their Time to Lose and They Should Have, But They Didn't.

The Maryville Feds went to Stanberry yesterday and lost to the Red Sox 4-2, through two or three base running mistakes. The Feds outhit their rivals 8-6 but could only count twice. Thieman pitched the game and Stephens was behind the bat. McCoy, Ferguson and Durham held down the outfield. The regular infield was used.

The last game of the series with Stanberry will be played here next Sunday and the following Sunday Tarkio will come here.

Mrs. J. L. Dougan of Bolckow arrived today for a visit of several days with her sister, Mrs. C. A. McCoppin.

Harry Davis of Kansas City was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Ed Otis, yesterday.

LIKED THIS COUNTY

J. F. MARSH TELLS OF VISIT WITH W. C. PIERCE HERE.

OLD BOYHOOD FRIENDS

Steelville Man Tells of Bellows Sale and Other Remarkable Things in Old Nodaway.

J. F. Marsh returned Monday from Maryville, Nodaway county, where he spent a week with W. C. Pierce, a former Steelville boy and a boyhood playmate of Mr. Marsh's. Speaking of his trip, Mr. Marsh says:

"Cal, as Mr. Pierce is familiarly known, left nothing undone to make my visit with him pleasant in the extreme, and I will certainly not forget the time spent in his hospitable home. He has a new eight cylinder touring car, and together we motored 365 miles, going in every direction from Maryville, which is situated in the heart of the most fertile agricultural section in the state.

Practically every foot of land can be cultivated. On one of our trips we went into Iowa, passing through the county seats of two Iowa counties. Our trip covered some sixty miles of as fine farming land as you will find in our own state. I saw many elegant farm houses everywhere I went.

One thing I expected to see in great numbers was the silo, but in the sixty-mile run in Iowa I only saw two silos, both of stave construction and apparently much decayed. However, I saw in Missouri many silos of various construction. Some were decaying but many were in first class shape.

While there I attended one of the greatest Short Horn sales ever held in the United States. Forty-two head of cattle sold for $55,505. One calf 11 months and 14 days old sold for $1,350.

These Short Horn cattle were owned and bred by Bellows Bros. of Maryville, Mo., with whom Mr. Pierce is associated in the banking business. His banking house is known as the Farmers Trust company, of which he has the honor of being vice president.

They have outgrown their present quarters and are now erecting a handsome stone building, which, when completed, will have cost $85,000. Most of the corn I saw on my trip is late and weedy, but crops as a whole are good." —Steelville Ledger.

TEDDY FOR HUGHES

ROOSEVELT OUT STRONGLY FOR REPUBLICAN TICKET.

BITTER WILSON ATTACK

The Colonel Says a Third Ticket Would Insure Democratic Victory, So He Must Say "No" to Progressives.

BULLETIN.

John M. Parker, national committeeman from Louisiana and nominee for vice president on the Progressive ticket, bolted the meeting of the national committee with twelve other members this afternoon when newspaper men were excluded from the meeting. Little chance for harmony seems possible.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Chicago, Ill., June 26.—Theodore Roosevelt came out squarely for Hughes today. In a letter to the Progressive national committee, meeting here today, he urges the Moose to get behind the Republican nominee and turn Mr. Wilson and the Democratic administration out of office. He declines to run against Hughes.

It is impossible for the Progressives to abandon their convictions, he says, but these convictions can be furthered more by electing Hughes than by supporting a third party ticket, which would give an easy victory to the Democrats.

The present administration, he says, has been guilty of short comings more signal than those of any administration since the days of Buchanan."

As to the German-American alliances' support of Mr. Hughes, Mr. Roosevelt says he believed their attitude is due "not in the least to any liking for Mr. Hughes, but solely to their antagonism to me."

Most Americans of German ancestry are loyal citizens, he says, but the professional German-Americans "are acting purely in the sinister interest of Germany."

He continues:

"Mr. Hughes' character and his whole course of conduct in public affairs justify us in the assured conviction that the fact that these men have for their own purposes supported him will, in no shape or way, affect his public actions before or after election."

Mr. Wilson's troubles are due to his timid and vacillating course, he says, adding:

Here's Some T. R. Logic.

"As regards the foreign situation generally during the great war, the fact of the existence of the war made

HARD BLOW TO AUSTRIA

Teutons Will Probably Make Last Desperate Stand in Carpathian Passes.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Petrograd, June 26.—The Russians have reached Transylvania after hurling back the Austrians who were defending the Carpathian passes. This is the most severe blow to the Austrians since the war began.

The blow is severe because the Russians are now in a position to menace Budapest. It is reported that the Russians have penetrated into Transylvania.

Austrians to Make Stand.

Vienna, June 26.—It is reported that the Austrians have taken up a powerful position in the Carpathians and will make a stand against the Russians. Violent artillery duels are reported in Galicia on the Volhynian Teutons. They are holding despite the terrific attacks of the re-enforced Russians.

Verdun Still Biggest Battle.

Paris, June 26.—The Germans continued their assault on the Verdun front. It is reported that the attack was repulsed and that the French recaptured part of the lost ground east of Meuse. The Floury battle is still progressing.

Fierce Fighting in Greece.

Saloniki, June 26.—Violent infantry fighting and severe bombardment is in progress in several places on the northern frontier.

MISSOURI TROOPS TO GO TOMORROW

AMONG FIRST STATES TO ENTRAIN AND FIRST TO BORDER.

STRONG BELIEF HELD CARRANZA TO REFUSE

Every Preparation Being Made in Congress and War Department for Open Warfare.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

El Paso, June 26.—Carranza's reply to the President's latest note will defy the United States. This is forecasted from inspired statements of high authorities in government circles of Juarez.

It became known from the author of these statements that a great body of troops has been sent from Chihuahua in the direction of Villa Ahunada. It is believed that some of these troops will go to the hills back of Juarez to join the troops there.

Trevino has a report that three thousand Americans with field guns have started from a point below Ahunodo to resist this column.

Sniping along the line of communication continues. Seven soldiers who had been guarding supply trains were brought in wounded today.

Situation to Congress Wednesday.

Washington, June 26.—President Wilson will place the Mexican situation before Congress Wednesday unless in the meantime Carranza meets the views of the United States.

Whether he will ask for a declaration of war or merely an authorization to utilize the armed force of the nation to enforce the decrees of the State Department is not decided.

Advocates of a flat declaration of war made it plain to the President that to utilize the armed force would cause a diplomatic break anyway and that it might as well be a straight declaration of war in the first place.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska told the Senate that Secretary of War Baker had informed him that there is no immediate intention of calling for volunteers.

No Chance For Mediation.

Latin-America diplomats who offer mediation met with Secretary Lansing at 2:45 this afternoon. The Secretary made plain in the conference that the time is not ripe for mediation. This means that the United States has declined on the ground of national honor.

Carranza's reply to the ultimatum is expected tomorrow morning. If the reply is unsatisfactory the President will at once carry the situation before Congress. Leaders of both houses say that their answer will be an immediate authorization to avenge the Carrizal massacre.

Congress Behind President.

Washington, June 26.—Congress has settled down to meet the Legislative problems growing out of the Mexican difficulty. Conferences are being held preparatory to a joint session when called for. Leaders declare that the President can depend on almost unanimous support.

New York, Pennsylvania, Missouri and other state troops are expected to it far easier and safer for Mr. Wilson to assert our rights than if he had to deal with some single strong power which was at the time unhampered by war."

He pays tribute to Mr. Hughes as follows:

"Mr. Hughes has shown in his career the instinct of efficiency which will guarantee that, under him, the government will once more work with vigor and force. He possesses that habit of straightforward thinking which means that his words will be correlated with his deeds and translated into facts. His past career is the warrant for our belief that he will be the unfaltering opponent of that system of invisible government which finds expression in the domination of the party boss and the party machine.

"His past career is a guarantee that whatever he says before election will be made good by his acts after election. Morally, his public record shows him to be a man of unbending integrity; intellectually, it shows him to be a man of original and trained ability. We have the alternative of continuing in office an administration which has proved a lamentable failure, or of putting into office an administration which we have every reason to believe will function with efficiency for the interest and honor of all our people."

WHY LABOR OPPOSES

CLEAR STATEMENT BY ST. JOSEPH MEN ON "PREPAREDNESS."

FAVORS BETTER METHODS

Unions Believe in Economic and Industrial Justice and Removing of Unrest Is Needed.

The Central Labor Council of St. Joseph has set forth its attitude toward the preparedness parade, to be held here June 28, in the following statement, issued for publication yesterday. It was prepared by a committee of the labor council, which was appointed for the purpose last Friday night. The statement follows:

Central Labor Council instructs its committee to say it has declined to join in a so-called preparedness parade June 28, and why it refuses to recommend members of union labor participate in an effort to stampede public sentiment and to divert attention from industrial wrongs within the borders of our nation, state and city. Therefore, the following is given as the voice of labor on preparedness:

Union labor is for preparedness, broad and complete, for economic and industrial justice; and not militarism, through agitation for increased armament against imaginary enemies abroad; it is for a system of preparedness the essentials of which are: Remove causes of industrial unrest which were so prominently brought out in the findings of the United States industrial relations commission; insure opportunity for employment at sufficient wage to maintain the highest American level of industry, placing them in the schools and playgrounds where they may develop into intelligent, healthy, useful citizens; and in every phase of American life establish a nation that guarantees to every citizen, life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, and not war, misery and death.

Union labor declines to use its influence for the promotion of a movement for autocratic military organization, discipline, or training, which fosters the powder-smelling schemes of munition manufacturers, and which has too recently placed workers at the objective end of a military rifle, to permit us to soon forget its meaning as really applied in practice of a pretense for peace maintenance and protection of property, and is used as a force for oppression.

Union labor declines to participate in any demonstration which is calculated to influence the calm, deliberate and patriotic consideration of our representatives in congress necessary to a proper solution of the preparedness problem.

With 5,000 names on the roll of the St. Joseph welfare board, the housing, living and working conditions in our packing house district, and in some of the wholesale and retail establishments, we insist that there is a graver danger within than without for the lives, liberty and happiness of the people, than from imaginary enemies abroad.

In view of all the facts and circumstances, labor renews its allegiance to the principles of the American Federation of Labor, namely:

1. Compulsory education.
2. Direct legislation through the initiative and referendum.
3. A legal work-day of not more than eight hours.
4. Sanitary inspection of workshops, mines and homes.
5. Liability of employers for injury to health, body or life.
6. The abolition of the contract system on all public works.
7. The abolition of the sweating system.
8. The municipal ownership of the street cars, water works and gas and electric plants for public distribution of light, heat and power.
9. The nationalization of telegraph, telephone, railroads and mines.
10. The abolition of the monopoly system of land holding and substituting therefor a title of occupancy and use only.
11. Repeal of conspiracy and penal laws affecting seamen and other workmen incorporated in the federal and state laws of the United States.
12. The abolition of the monopoly privilege of issuing money, and substituting therefor a system of direct issuance to and by the people.

In conclusion we call upon all employees to exercise their constitutional rights to resist coercive means that are being used to influence their attitude and manifestations with regard to "preparedness."

We stand uncovered before a nation's banner whose white stripes typify purity of purpose, whose red stripes mean a courage strong enough to stand for the right in all places and circumstances, and whose field of blue stars represents to us a unity of sentiment and action which will bring into the lives, the hearts and the homes of the common people a true veneration for our nation as the home of a great people. EVERYBODY will be glad to know that one of the musical attractions to be repeated at Chautauqua this year is that splendid Concert Band under the able leadership of Bohumir Kryl. This is the same big band that captivated the audiences last summer. It is coming back, bigger and better than ever, with added features and many a quaint and curious quirk that such a bandmaster as Kryl knows so well how to weave into his programs.

Maryville Now Entering Third Week Without Disorder or Police Court Case.

No saloons, no arrests. That seems to be the case in Maryville. The city is now entering its third week without an open saloon and not an arrest has been made since the closing of the last bar two weeks ago Saturday night. No disorder has been reported, and if this state of affairs continues it is confidently predicted that Maryville will never even vote on the liquor issue again.

DIDN'T GET TO COME

SO T. H. B. GARNER WRITES OF FORMER MARYVILLE.

CAME HERE 50 YEARS AGO

Spickard Man Very Disappointed at Not Being Able to Attend Big Celebration.

T. H. B. Garner of Spickard, Mo., was a very disappointed man when he did not get to attend the big seventieth anniversary celebration in Maryville, June 15. He writes a letter to the secretary of the Commercial club, in which he tells of his early life here. The letter follows:

Spickard, Mo., June 16, 1916.—Mr. W. R. Jackson: Dear Sir—I regret very much that I was unable to attend the seventieth anniversary of the first lot sale in Maryville. The first time I landed in your city was in January, 1866, and I lived there about four years. At that time there was no railroad in Maryville, and I had to travel on a stage coach from Savannah, 35 miles away, over the worst road in the state of Missouri. We had to pass through the famous Bennett lane, and part of the time we had to walk and carry a rail to pry the old stage out of the mud. We finally arrived after dark, cold, muddy and hungry. The next morning I took a walk over the then village of Maryville, and my conclusion was that it was one of the hardest looking, dilapidated towns I had ever struck, but after I had been there awhile, and got acquainted, I learned to love the old town, and she has now a warm place in my heart that will be severed only in death.

It has been over fifty years since I landed in Maryville. I was then a youth of 17 years, and now I am an old man of 67 years, with a wife, children and grandchildren. I have had many joys and sorrows in Maryville, but the saddest time I had was when my half-brother died, August 31, 1869. He lies buried in the old cemetery, but I don't think I could find his grave, as I understand the cemetery has been deserted and many of the bodies have been taken up and removed to Miriam cemetery.

At that time I knew almost every man, woman and child in Maryville, but of course time brings many changes, and most of the old residents have either moved away or crossed the divide. There are a few yet living in Maryville that I am acquainted with, among them Henry Hudson, Nat Sisson, Joseph Jackson and others that I don't know where they are, living or dead.

Wanted to Read of It.

Will you please send me a Maryville paper that gives a full account of the anniversary celebration? I have not been in Maryville for about 35 years, and of course I would not know the place. If some time in the future there is on old settlers' reunion or some other great event in Maryville, please let me know and I sure will be on hand, if I am living and able to get there. I hope your city will continue to prosper and may her reputation rapidly increase until she becomes a rival of St. Joseph.

As I have written to some length I will bring my rambling remarks to a close by saying, "Here is to Maryville, queen city of northwest Missouri, capital of Nodaway county, one of the best counties in the grand old state of Missouri." Although it is not my privilege to be in Maryville very often, I want to see the grand old town once more before I shove off this mortal coil, so I will bid you a kind adieu by asking if Uncle Jimmie Saunders is yet living?

As ever your friend, with kindest regards and best wishes.

T. H. B. GARNER.

P. S.—Be sure and send me a paper.

CLAY DOESN'T LIKE CLAY

Liberty's County Carries Million and Quarter Bond Issue for Permanent Rock Roads.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Liberty, Mo., June 26.—Clay county gave more than a two-thirds majority for a $1,250,000 bond issue for rock roads, and as soon as the work can be done that county to the north of Kansas City will pull out of the mud forever. A strenuous fight has been made and the proposition carried well in all parts of the county.

The argument which seemed most effective with all classes was that it was a saving to put a large amount of money at one time into some 365-day surfaces and then spend less for their upkeep probably than is now being spent upon the unsatisfactory dirt.

It is confidently believed that the increase in the value of the land will more than equal the bond issue.

PREVENT SORE SHOULDERS

Correct Fitting of Collars Best for Horses—Some Home-Made Remedies.

The best cure for sore shoulders is prevention. By proper fitting of the collar they can be avoided. Sometimes the shoulders of a fresh horse will scald. I have cured them by bathing with cold water at noon and night, and sprinkling with sulphur after each time, says L. Martin in Farm and Home Bathing the shoulders in a solution made by boiling oak bark in soft water will toughen the shoulder and prevent it from scalding.

I raise the collars from the shoulders each time to cool. This allows the shoulder to cool. The best thing I have found for sore shoulders, is a mixture composed of two tablespoons sulphur, two tablespoons melted lard and one teaspoon carbolic acid. Mix and apply the same as any gall cure.

The Stroke Oar

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

A number of young men, mostly collegians, were sitting in a group on the forward deck of a North river steamer. They were going up to Poughkeepsie to a boat race of college crews on the Hudson. An elderly man sat near them listening to their talk and enjoying the exuberance of youth which came bubbling out of them. Presently he drew his chair near them and said:

"Your talk takes me back a good many years. I pulled in the race of 186— between Harvard and Yale, a race never to be forgotten by me on account of a curious culmination connected with it."

"What was that, sir?"

The man hesitated. Presently he said: "I'll give it to you, but understand that I don't put any interpretation on it.

"I was at Harvard the year I have mentioned. Yale had beaten us for several years. We had lost several consecutive races, and this year we were especially anxious to break up the run of ill success and get some encouragement into our supporters by winning a race. Those who could go back in college affairs said that there had been no success since Wilkins had been captain of the crew and stroke at the same time. We hadn't the coaches in those days you boys have now and were more dependent upon some single member of the crew.

"I was captain of that crew of 186—and made it up myself. I expected to give the stroke, but a couple of months before the regatta I was taken ill and when the race was about to come off had not sufficiently recovered to row at all. I had a hard time to find a man to take my place in the crew, and as for getting one who could give the stroke and carry the crew to a possible success—it was impossible.

"The evening before the regatta I was sitting in my room at the —— House alone and feeling very blue when there came a tap at my door. I said, 'Come in!' and a young man entered who was one of the most striking fellows in appearance I ever saw. He was very thinly dressed, and the muscles stood out all over him. The only thing against him for strength was that he was very pale.

"'Going to get licked tomorrow?' he said.

"'I suppose so. Who are you?'

"'I'm a Harvard man. I reckon I'll have to help you out. Can you use me?'

"I asked him a lot of questions about what class he was in, what course he was taking, when he had entered, when he would graduate, and could get nothing definite out of him. He said that he was an expert oarsman and if I would put him on the crew and any one after the race attempted to prove that he had no right to be there it would be time enough to be more explicit. The college needed a victory, and after a victory it would pluck up.

"I fully agreed with him as to the necessity of a victory and arranged with him to be at the boathouse as the boat was about to be put into the water. He was there, all right, and when in rowing togs his frame was a sight to behold. I've never seen better biceps in my life. When the crew entered the boat he took the stroke.

"What a sweep he gave that oar of his! It seemed a feather in his hands. And his stroke was so perfect that, though there was not a man behind him who had ever been in a boat with him before, there was no difficulty in all of them keeping perfect time with him.

"The boat shot out into the middle of the river, where the faces of the crew were not very plain to those on shore, and I was glad of it, for I had my doubts about my stroke's right to be there. The boats lined up and made a start at the first signal to go.

"There was a noticeable difference between the work of the two crews. Now and again some Yale man would send up the spray, but not a man in the Harvard boat struck a cupful of water on the recover. It was all in the leadership of the stroke.

"Our fellows took the lead from the first and kept it around the stake boat and won the race by a good hundred yards. It was the prettiest won race I ever saw. When I got to the boathouse the men had carried in the boat. I looked around for my stroke, but didn't see him. One of the crew said he had just gone up the bank. I followed, but he was nowhere to be seen.

"It would take a lot of time to tell you what was said about the introduction at the last moment of a new and unknown man. There was much adverse criticism, and it fell principally on me. One thing I heard startled me. Several persons who had known Wilkins when he was in college declared that my stroke was he. I wondered if he had come back and got into the crew without letting me or any one know that he was doing what he had no right to do. I learned where Wilkins lived and wrote a line to him asking if he would kindly tell me where he was on the day of the regatta. What do you suppose was the reply? His father wrote me that he had been very ill for some time and died the evening before the race.

"Now, young gentlemen, I don't wish any comments on my story. I have none to make myself. I have simply given it to you as, according to my senses, it occurred. I may have dreamed it."

SPOILED THE TABLEAU.

A Brilliant Scheme That Didn't Work Out Exactly Right.

"My least boy, Bearcat, showed off some at the cantata in the schoolhouse t'uther night," related Mr. Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "'Mongst other things they perpetrated a tableau called 'Empty Is the Cradle; Baby's Gone!'

"They had a cradle on the platform, and Bearcat, all trimmed up in a white robe with wings on the back, was lying in it with a belt around his waist under the gown and a wire running over a hook in the ceiling and out through a hole in the winder pane. The Glee club was going to get off the song, and at the proper moment a bunch of boys outside would pull the wire and haul Bearcat up'ards, perdoocin', it was estimated, a solemn and moving spectacle.

"But they wanted to have the tableau along towards the last, and as the platform was small and they didn't have any scenery they put Bearcat in the cradle and set 'em back of the teacher's desk before the crowd came. He is only four years old, and nacher'l enough he fell asleep, and when the Glee club turned loose it didn't wake him. The first thing he knew he was climbing heavenward out of a dream with something pulling at him.

"Forgetting where he was, he gave a yell and grabbed the cradle. Up they went, Bearcat, cradle and all. The load was heavier than the boys outside expected, and they buckled to it right ably. So when the kid dropped the cradle about three-quarters of the way up the reaction caused the boys to yank him against the ceiling with a fury that like to have busted the poor little feller's crust.

"You never heard such bellowing out of a four-year-old in all your life! Although he's my boy, I had no idee he was half so fluent!"—Tom P. Morgan in Judge.

Thrift.

Thrift does not come at our beck and call, nor can it be slipped on or off like an old coat. It is established by practice rather than theory, by example more than by precept.—Theodore Roosevelt.

A Painful Inference.

A teacher was instructing a class of boys and had spent half an hour trying to drive into their heads the difference between man and the lower animals, but apparently with little success.

"Tommy," he said coaxingly to a little chap, "do you know the difference between, say, me and a pig or any other brute?"

"No," replied Tommy innocently, but another teacher standing by laughed.—London Answers.

He Worried the Judge.

A story used to be told of the elder Judge Peckham, father of the supreme court justice. In the early days of dentistry a hickory plug was put into the cavity to fill the space where a tooth ought to be. This plug had to be gently pounded into its desired position. The old judge was somewhat addicted to strong language, and when the dentist began his work the judge indulged in some classic comment. As the tapping of the plug continued he threw all dignity to the four winds of heaven and his language became decidedly "more forcible than elegant." When, however, he arose from the chair after what seemed to him an interminable period of agony he pulled out all the stops in his vocabulary for a grand climax. The impression on his listener seems to have been deep and lasting. As the judge passed out the dentist grimly remarked to a waiting patient:

"Wasn't it beautiful? It wasn't really necessary to pound half so long, but I did so enjoy his inflection that I almost pounded the hickory plug into splinters. Wonderful command of language the judge has!"

Caught the Senator.

When Dr. Edward Everett Hale was chaplain of the senate he once asked a certain senator with a good deal of solicitation if he was a church member. The senator was glad to be able to say that he was. Two or three days later, according to the story, Dr. Hale recurred to the subject and asked the name of the church. The senator gave a name. Two or three days later again Dr. Hale remarked to the senator with regret that he had looked up that church and that he was sorry to find that it had been burned down twelve years before and never rebuilt.

HERE'S A PATRIOTIC FIRM

St. Joseph Concern Extends Accounts of Militiamen and Will Remit Bill if Man is Killed.

A St. Joseph firm has shown its loyalty to the colors by helping the customers who go to war with the militia, regular army or navy, all they can. Any customer—head or support of a family—owing them money will be granted an extension on his account until he returns. If he loses his life while in service the account will be cancelled and a receipt in full will be sent to the family. This makes many men feel more like going to the front, it is said.

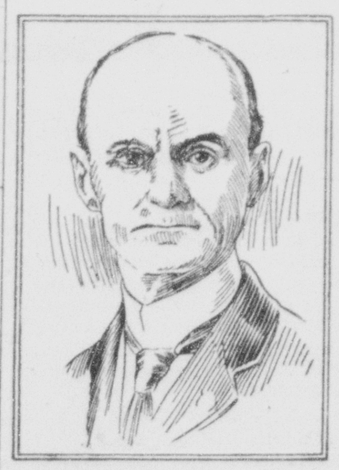
A GREAT LECTURE ON POPULAR ART

Wonderfully Interesting Treatise on Subject That Scores Are Interested In—Something New and Novel.

The Chautauqua for this season brings one attraction at least that is in the nature of an innovation. It is George E. Colby of Chicago, who will deliver a lecture on art.

Now, that may sound prosy enough to those who have erroneous notions about art, but it will be a welcome announcement to the ears of all the people who know anything about Mr. Colby and his work.

Mr. Colby served for years as cartoonist on the Chicago Daily News.



GEORGE E. COLBY.

In that capacity his genius for sketching with his pen had a grand chance to develop, and it did. But he felt deeper call to a more profound study and has applied himself to it as a gracious and wholesome task.

The result is a finished lecture, full of profitable hints and information to all who are even primarily interested in art. He is also a rapid sketch artist with the crayon and makes free use of it in the illustration of his work.

Colby has spent many years on the platform in art recitals and has built up for himself a splendid reputation. He will make a big hit at the Chautauqua.

ELECTING A PRESIDENT

JEFFERSON.

Jefferson Elected by House of Representatives.

THE Democratic Republicans supported Thomas Jefferson for president and Aaron Burr for vice president in 1800. The Federalists supported John Adams and C. C. Pinckney. The vote, as counted on Feb. 11, 1801, was:

Jefferson, 73; Burr, 73; Adams, 65; Pinckney, 64; Jay, 1.

No one having received a majority of the votes cast, the house of representatives proceeded on the same day to elect a president. The balloting continued for six days, and finally Jefferson received the votes of a majority of the states and was declared elected. Sixteen states voted.

Jefferson defeated C. C. Pinckney of South Carolina by a big majority in the election of 1804.
